FORTY-NINTH YEAR. NUMBER 92 — CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1932 — THREE CENTS

Did you Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT Pickaway-co common pleas court will have established a record in sending men to the Ohio Penitentiary for execution this summer when three negroes and a white man go to the electric chair for the murder of John Kidney, Monroe-twp farmer. This is a record list of executions for the murder of one person. According to officials of the penitentiary thus far the record has been that only three men have been sent to death for a murder. In 1927 three Cuyahoga-co men were electrocuted for the death of a policeman.

That the solid mass of ivy which almost covers the front part of the county jail building, W. Franklin-st, was brought to this city from Kenelworth, England, and planted by Mrs. Alice Hawkes Brown, a former resident. While a resident here, Mrs. Brown lived in a house on the site of the Dr. J. F. Simkins property, W. Franklin-st. The ivy vine has been cut down numerous times but "can't be killed."

That previous to his retirement from business, J. J. Brehmer, Northridge-rd had been engaged in the art of raising flowers for 62 years. He retired five years ago at the age of 73. He first became associated with the business when 11 years of age in the McKellar Greenhouses at Chillicothe. After being there eight years he went to Cincinnati and was manager of the Jackson Nurseries for two years. He then came to Circleville and started his first greenhouses on E. Mound-st and at that time the railroad had to be crossed before the flower houses could be reached. He then moved two greenhouses from Adelphi to this city. His next move took him to the northend of the city where he built a large greenhouse in Park-place on the present site of the residence of Mrs. A. D. Newmyer. After spending 12 years in this location he moved to the site of the present Brehmer Greenhouses and was located here 30 years. He is still in active good health and can still remember his first trip to Circleville from Chillicothe in 1873 when he was 19 years of age. "We left Chillicothe in the stage coach at 5 o'clock in the morning and got in Circleville at 2 o'clock in the afternoon," Mr. Brehmer remarks.

That the summer of 1875 was so "wet" that nearly the entire Pickaway-co wheat crop rotted. Weeds sprung up and grew higher than the wheat shocks.

THAT the names of three other Ohio counties were derived as follows:

Athens-co—The name of Athens, the ancient city of learning in Greece, was given both the county and city in which Ohio University, first university in the Northwest territory established in 1797.

Clinton-co — This county was named for George Clinton, vice-president of the U. S. at the time the county was formed in 1810. He was an uncle of Gov. DeWitt Clinton of New York.

Cuyahoga-co—Many meanings are given the Indian name of this county. Thus one finds it may mean "crooked" because the Cuyahoga river is crooked.

That many years ago there was no bridge over Hargus Creek on N. Court-st and the few residents who lived in the north-end were forced to "ford the creek" when they wished to come down town. When the creek was up, the few dwellers had to stay at home as it was impossible to cross the creek.

EXPERTS' OPINIONS ON BLAST DIFFER; DYNAMITE STOLEN

Some Say Explosion at State Office Building Caused by Dynamite DuPont Investigators Report to the Contray; Nephew of Judge Found Dead

COLUMBUS, April 16— Investigators are returning to the theory that gas caused the tragic explosion which took at least eight lives at the new $6,000,000 state office building, County Detective Robert McCall, stated today.

"All developments in our inquiry point toward gas stored up in a subterannean chamber as the cause of the explosion," the detective said.

COLUMBUS, O., April 16— An unexpected announcement by explosive experts that dynamite could not have caused the disastrous state office building explosion today turned the blast into one of Ohio's major mysteries of all time.

With the investigation back where it started a few hours after parts of the new $6,000,000 structure were crumbled and ripped away Thursday afternoon, probers waited for an attorney representing Governor George White to try to lead them out of a wilderness of wild tips and theories.

Joseph G. Hostetler, Cleveland attorney and law partner of Newton D. Baker, was appointed to that position late yesterday.

NEED DIRECTOR

An attorney was appointed to represent the governor in the probe "because a directing head is needed for this inquiry who can give it far more time than I could," the governor said.

The death toll, meanwhile, climbed to eight, with the finding of another victim in the ruins of the building late yesterday afternoon. He was Robert J. Pfefferle, nephew of Municipal Judge Ben L. Pfefferle.

New mystery was added when it was learned that, despite expert opinion, Franklin and Madison-co officials are trying to find what happened to 300 pounds of dynamite which disappeared from the London, O., power plant last week.

SABOTAGE BLAMED

Many arose to dispute the belief that unknown bombers or dynamiters could not have been guilty. Remembering frequent labor troubles in the erection of the building, they held to the theory that sabotage was responsible.

Under Hostetler's direction, the investigators today were expected to give immediate attention to the expert opinion which suddenly removed possible dynamiters from the official picture.

It was submitted by four representatives of the DuPont Co. who were called here for an opinion as to whether dynamite, TNT or nitroglycerine could have caused the costly explosion.

Commenting on the report which eliminated the dynamite theory, the governor said:

"Their statement is not final but after several hours of digging

TERMS CHANGED

The terms of common pleas court has been altered by Judge Adkins in order to make the sessions of the court more relative as to the time of year. Instead of having court in January, April and October court from now on will be in January, May and September.

TWO CARS CRASH, NO ONE INJURED

No one was injured at 10 p. m. Friday when a Franklin sedan driven by R. E. Bowie of Wheeling, W. Va., collided with a Ford sedan, being driven north on N Court-st by L. M. Dill of Groveport, at the intersection of Northridge-rd and N. Court-st.

Bowie was driving off Northridge-rd to N. Court-st and Dill was going north on Court-st when the accident occurred.

The cars were taken to the Circleville Motors Co. for repairs.

COGNOVIT FILED

R. L. Brehmer has filed a cognovit suit against Maude Stoker and John Arnett for $276.76 with seven per cent interest. Abernethy and Simkins are his attorneys

Slayer and Victim

Confronted with fingerprint evidence, Glenn Shustrom, of Whiting, Ind., broke down and confessed that he had attacked and afterwards murdered twelve-year-old Susan Alberta Knight (inset), who was found strangled in a Whiting rooming house operated by her mother. Shustrom's arrest was brought about by fingerprints he left on the dead girl's bed.

BELIEVE FLARE KIDNAP SIGNAL

Light Burns Five Minutes In Lindbergh Yard, is Thought Significant.

TRENTON, N. J., April 16— A magnesium signal flare suddenly blazed up early today on the lawn of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's home near Hopewell, N. J., brilliantly illuminating the lonely white house atop Sourland mountain.

Its blinding glare, visible for miles around the countryside, brought scores of sleepy farmers running toward the scene in the hope that it might signify a happy turn in the efforts to recover the abducted Lindbergh baby.

Observers were inclined to place significance in the occurrence especially because it was known that Colonel Henry Breckinridge, Lindbergh's legal advisor, kept up a lonely vigil in the home of Dr. John F. Condon, in New York City, far into the night.

It was believed that he expected some message telephone or agent from the kidnapers with whom either he or Condon, the signer of the famous "Jefsie" advertisement which led to the payment of the $50,000 hoax ransom, had re-established contact, according to reports

COLORED MEN KIDNAP GIRL

PHILADELPHIA, April 16 — Three negroes snatched a white woman into an automobile in South Philadelphia today and escaped before a lone witness could intervene.

The negroes were believed to be the same trio who kidnaped a boy here Thursday. The boy later escaped.

Jacob Capaum, a fruit dealer, reported the abduction to police.

Police immediately spread a dragnet over the southeast section of the city. Identity of the victim was not immediately established.

Capaum said he was unloading a truckload of fruit at his store when an automobile, with three negro occupants, roared past and skidded to a halt near a well-dressed young, white woman who was walking down South Street, some distance away.

Two men jumped from the car, overpowered the girl and tosser her into the car. Capaum said the girl creamed and struggled with her captors as the car sped away.

The storekeeper said the kidnapers car carried New Jersey license tags.

Police said they believed the negroes were the same men who kidnaped Edward Walsh, 14, while he was enroute to school. The boy escaped a few hours later after being locked in a stable by his abductors.

COUNTY JAIL NOW FREE OF CRIME GANG

John Hairston Enters Penitentiary Friday Afternoon; Last of Sextet

FOUR ARE TO DIE

Laments Fact That Smith Received Mercy

The Pickaway-co jail was free from persons charged with murder for the first time since last Dec. 16, Saturday, after John "Dump" Hairston, 27, colored, was taken to Ohio penitentiary Friday afternoon for the rest of his life. Hairston is the sixth person, the fifth negro, to enter the penitentiary from Pickaway-co in the last six weeks.

Hairston who testified as a state's witness against the five other culprits, was granted leniency by the court and given a life sentence.

The others in the 'Big House' are Walker Brown, 24, colored, who is to die in the electric chair June 3; Henry Loudermilk, 47, white is to die with Brown; Lacey Adams, 38, colored, sentenced to be electrocuted June 10; Arthur Little 30, colored, to die July 22, and Franklin Smith, 37, colored, sentenced to life imprisonment after being granted mercy by a jury.

ENTERED CO. JAIL

The first of the sextet to enter the county bastile were Hairston, Lacey Adams and Franklin Smith, the latter held only as a material witness at that time because he was a restaurant man and a person likely to know something of the movements of other persons in Hanford village; as it turned out he knew plenty about happenings there. The three, with Walker Brown, were arrested in Hanford village on information from Charles Goins, deputy marshall there. After questioning in Franklin-co. jail Brown was turned loose and the other three brought here.

They were questioned during Wednesday night but nothing of importance was learned. Henry Loudermilk, identified in Hanford Village as a man who drove a roadster and who had been seen hobnobbing with several negroes, was arrested at his home in Columbus but after being questioned was turned loose.

Late Thursday night the day Loudermilk was freed, Hairston began his confession which resulted in the re-arrest of Brown and Loudermilk and in the death penalties for four and life imprisonment for himself and one other. Franklin Smith, held at one time only as a material witness was found implicated as much as anyone.

JOKED ON TRIP

Hairston in making the trip to the penitentiary was as carefree and gleeful as he has been all through the case. Joking and laughing he seemed to care not a bit whether or not he went to the penitentiary.

Only two things seemed to ruffle him: they were that Franklin Smith did not get the death penalty as the other four had, and that Arthur Little did get the chair. Hairston said that he couldn't see justice in the fact that Smith was given mercy and Loudermilk was not. "Henry was a mile away from the house when the man was killed and Frank was in Columbus. I don't see any difference. Frank furnished two revolvers and two tubes of chloroform and he knew what they were for. He gave the gang ree meals, divided the money and took his share and the only reason he didn't go along was that he was crippled and wouldn't have had much chance to get away if we had been chased. Henry furnished the automobile and plans so I can't see that there is any difference." Hairston asserted. His reason for lamenting the fact that Little got the chair was more or les sentimental

ORDER MORE GUARDS TO CADIZ MINE AREA

Gov. White Sends Cleveland, Canton, Youngstown Men to 'Front'

TROUBLE FORESEEN

Another Miner is Found Dead This Morning

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.— Additional Ohio National Guard troops from Cleveland, Canton and Youngstown were ordered into the eastern Ohio coal strike field today by Gov. George White.

With a serious outbreak threatened in the vicinity of Cadiz where 385 khaki clad and helmeted militiamen are already on guard with all modern instruments of war the Governor and Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson called out 250 more men.

Those summoned for instantaneous action are:

One hundred and twenty officers and men of Companies A and B of the 145th infantry, Cleveland.

Sixty officers and men of Company C of the 145th infantry, Canton.

Fifty officers and men of Company H of the 145th infantry, Youngstown.

HAVE ALL ARMS

Equipped with machine guns, tear gas bombs and radio communication equipment the additional militiamen will be rushed to Cadiz by train and truck at once.

The summons for more troops was a direct result of finding of the body of Carl Naygran, 45, following a strike fight at Harmon Creek, near Cadiz. He is the second man who has been killed in strike battles this week.

A promise by the officials of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company mines at Adena that strikers will be defied Monday and an attempt will be made to resume operations full force was believed to have increased the tenseness of the situation and brought the Governor's orders.

The additional militiamen will report at once to Colonel Will L. Marlin of Cleveland, who is in command of troops now stationed at Cadiz and at mines near there which have been trouble points.

Re-enforcements are needed at Cadiz because the strike "front" is so far flung, Governor White and Adjutant General Henderson said.

An order has been issued against picketing within six miles of the "danger mines."

Immediately after the new troops have arrived at Cadiz the strike "army" will be split up and guards will be stationed at points along the "front" which have not previously been protected.

With the addition of troops from Cleveland, Canton and Youngstown the total of men in the strike field will be more than 600.

FOUR ARE BURNED

NEW YORK, April 16.—A family of four, consisting of father, mother and two children, was burned to death today. Flames mushrooming from the cellar to the roof trapped the victims in their third floor apartment of a bronx tenement house.

Neighbors attracted by the blaze helped firemen rescue the terror-stricken members of 12 other families endangered in the burning dwelling.

Four persons including two children, were hurt.

Immediate identification of the four dead was impossible because their bodies were charred beyond recognition.

Defied by Solons

Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas finds himself in the unenviable position of having a rebellious Legislature on his hands. The Governor's recent order dissolving the Legislature was ignored by the Arkansas House of Representatives when it met and proceeded to enact legislation for governmental economy. Members of the House also ordered the arrest of W. H. Phipps, former chief clerk, in connection with the removal of State records.

CALL DAWES IN BONUS PARLEY

Former Vice President Expected To Prove Be Foe of Cash Payment.

WASHINGTON, April 16— Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation and a veteran of the World War, will be summoned before the House ways and means committee to testify on bills proposing cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 soldiers bonus, it was announced today.

The former vice president and diplomat may become the "ace" witness of forces fighting the bonus payments. But Dawes will be invited by the committee in his capacity as one of the highest ranking financial officers of the government.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Governor Meyer of the federal Reserve board will be invited to appear as government officials.

Acting chairman Crisp (D) of Georgia of the ways and means committee said that the committee, seeking information on the effect of the bonus payment plan, would also invite economists from leading universities.

Backers of the cash payment plan, anxious to get action on the measure, plan to complete their presentation on Monday. The committee stood in recess today.

TALKS AT ASHVILLE

H. E. BonDurant, of Columbus, field lecturer for the Parents' International League of the World's Purity federation will speak Monday at 8 p. m. at the United Brethren church in Ashville using as his subject "Keeping Fit" or 'Dangers of Ignorance." Only men and boys over 14 years of age are permitted to hear the address.

There is no admission charge.

THUG, SUSPECT ON JOBS HERE, THOUGHT HELD

Newark Police Capture Man Wanted for Oak Park, Ill., Murder

'PULLED' OHIO JOBS

Picture Thought Identified by People Here

A man, identified by his picture as one who helped rob the Clifton theater and the Noecker garage in March, is thought to be held in Newark after an attempted theater robbery in Zanesville last night. He gave his name as George Copley, 24.

The picture obtained from Indiana authorities by Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissel has been identified by employees of the theater and persons at the garage who were robbed at the points of a revolver and a shotgun.

The 'story' coming from Newark today follows.

NEWARK, O., April 16.— George Copley, 24, reputed Columbus "tough guy," was arrested by police here early today after a Zanesville theater robbery and held as a suspect in the murder of Detective James Kelly of Oak Park, Ill., at Gary, Ind., on March 31.

Copley and a companion, Ross Dano, alis Davis, also of Columbus, allegedly confessed staging a $400 robbery at a Zanesville theater this morning. Police said Copley also admitted attempting to rob the Amesville, O., bank in Athens-co recently when a cashier was shot.

MADE GETAWAY

After the Gary, Ind., shooting, Copely was captured by Indianapolis police but later made a getaway, authorities here were informed.

Paul Frederick, who was arrested in the detectives' raid on a Gary hotel when police also were seeking Copley, later declared that Copely killed the Oak Park detective, according to police records.

Copley and Dano were taken into custody today after a chase with a radio cruiser. In their car police found $400, two revolvers and ammunition, authorities said.

Questfoned here and at Zanesville, Copley was said to have admitted accompanying Charles Lamberson when the Amesville robbery was attempted.

Lamberson later was captured and held as a suspect in a bank robbery near New Philadelphia.

Two theater messangers were taped and gagged in today's Zanesville robbery. Copley and Dano were later jailed at Zanesville.

Climax Expected In Honolulu Case

HONOLULU, T. H., April 16.— With Chief Defense Counsel Clarence Darrow reported ready for the fray again, a showdown on the insanity defense in the Fortescue-Massie trial was demanded today by Prosecutor John C. Kelley.

Kelley has hurled down the gauntlet to the 74-year-old defender whose sudden attack of gastritis yesterday forced a day's postponement in the trial, and today's legal battle promised to be both bitter and brilliant.

MASSIE IN CENTER

The center of the fight is a serious, quick-witted young naval officer, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, who is straining at the leash to unfold before a mixed-blood jury of his peers what is confidently expected to be a sensational confession of the shooting of Joseph Kahahawai at the bungalow home of Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, his mother-in-law.

Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, and two naval enlisted men are on trial charged with the second degree murder of Kahahawai, accused as the leader of a gang of five hoodlums in a brutal attack on Mrs. Massie.

Darrow retired early last night.

AMERICAN HELD

MEXICO CITY, April 16. Roy Reynolds, an American who gave St. Louis as his home, was held under arrest today charged with passing worthless checks and having defrauded Americans G[illegible] of sums totaling [illegible] than 100,000 pesos [illegible].

The arrest of two other Americans, alleged to have been associated with Reynolds, was expected soon, police said.

Five-Day Week Idea Of Hoover

WASHINGTON, April 16.—If industrialists would work their employes five days a week, instead of six and in many cases seven days, President Hoover believes they could help the country to return to normal business operations.

He views the five-day week, advocated by the American Federation of Labor and others, as perhaps the best way toward permanent and stable business recovery.

This plan, Mr. Hoover explained today, would distribute the work available among a greater number of men and would absorb a fair percentage of the unemployed.

GIVE ALL WORK

When production increases and the factories expand he believes the employers should continue the short-week system until every idle workman is placed on a payroll.

Mr. Hoover is convinced that this is the most promising way toward business recovery and he discussed its advantages thoroughly with his cabinet.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declares the five-day week or the six-hour day, is industry's only alternative. He has cited repeatedly that for the last five or ten years thousands of workmen have been discharged and their work performed by modern machinery. Some work that heretofore required a dozen or so men is now being done by a machine with only one man to operate perhaps several like machines.

Mr. Hoover and Green agree that labor is staging its greatest fight against the machine age and the only hope of the millions now jobless, is that employes will adopt the short-week plan and provide work for a greater number of men.

HOOVER ECONOMY PLAN RESERVED

WASHINGTON, April 16— President Hoover's completed economy program, designed ultimately to effect savings of at least $200,000,000 a year was taken under advisement by the special house economy committee today.

Determined to force action on the house next Tuesday on the money savings, the economy committee planned strenuous efforts to evolve a bill from its own and the president's plan.

Ohio's Trio Of Disasters Augmented By Fourth; All Occur In Spring Of The Year

COLUMBUS, April 16— Ohio's trilogy of outstanding recent disasters must make way for a fourth.

In genuine mystery, modern Ohio has not had a calamity to approach the explosion at the new $6,000,000 state office building.

So puzzling and baffling is the question of how the explosion was caused that the latest catastrophe approaches all of the other, the Cleveland Clinic disaster, the Millfield mine explosion and the Ohio penitentiary fire in real public interest.

Before the solution is reached a number of newspaper words will swiftly together to tell 1932's loss death and ruin may total the amount written about the other disasters.

As in 1929 and 1930, it was spring that brought Ohio its greatest tragedy this year. Death came to the victims at the season of the year when life seemed most worth living.

It was on May 15, 1929, that the Cleveland clinic, housing hundreds of patients many of them well known, blew up.

PEN FIRE GREATEST

Eleven months later, April 21, 1930, the Ohio Penitentiary caught fire. That year, 1930, also produced another great catastrophe, a gas explosion at the Millfield O. mine. The date was Nov. 5.

Ohio in 1930 was without a major disaster except the gas explosion at the Midvale O. mine on Jan. 3 when five miners were killed.

In the number of victims, it is to be hoped that the Ohio Penitentiary fire will never have a rival. A total of 322 men were burned to death in the prison holocaust. Two prisoners confessed setting the penitentiary afire in the hope of escaping.

Failing ruins on the doomed cellblock trapped helpless men like rats in a trap. Those killed or fatally hurt was 321. Flames from nitro-cellulos and Nitrate films caused the explosion. Days after victims continued to succumb to death.

Eighty-two were killed at Millfield. The mine was gaseous and the workings were torn into even greater caverns with miners burned [illegible] the debris.

THROWN IN TURMOIL

As in the case of the two disasters, Cleveland clinic blast was thrown into a great turmoil. Hospitals were crowded with [illegible] cases by first-aid squads and ambulances who rushed in the [illegible] ambulances who sped [illegible] streets with their sirens [illegible] frantically.

Many [illegible] were set [illegible] and so many relatives thronged to [illegible] their missing.

Many [illegible] heroism by newspaper [illegible] by veterans of the [illegible] Division Reporters [illegible] to help identify [illegible] chased some of the dead [illegible] and themselves became [illegible].

Nine [illegible] ventured into the [illegible] walls to bring out the facts about the prison fire.

Birds Will Face Milwaukee Men

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—The Kansas City aggregation took its "blues" to Toledo today after defeating the Columbus Red Birds, 7-4, in the series final here yesterday, and the Birds were determined to wreck their vengeance on the Milwaukee Brewers this afternoon.

As a result of its second consecutive win over the Birds, Kansas City was still among the elite at the top of the American Association standing today, tied with Louisville and Milwaukee.

Although collecting 13 hits while Big Bill Lee, Al Grabowski and Bill Beckman gave the Blues only 8 bingles, two errors combined with walks in the fourth and fifth innings gave Kansas City the game.

Toledo also lost its second straigh game of the season to the Milwaukee Brewers yesterday, 11-5, and today was helping Columbus and St. Paul hold down the cellar position.

Four wild and ineffective Mud Hen twirlers could not hold the Brewers, who collected 15 hits and 12 bases on balls. Sixteen Brewers and 12 Toledoans were left stranded on base before the two-hour-and-a-half game was brought to a close.

Louisville was still on top today, following its fourth straight defeat of St. Paul at the Kentuckians home grounds yesterday. The Colonels won the final game, 6-5, to sweep the four-game series.

Clyde Hatter, ace Louisville moundsman, saw an apparent shut out slip through his fingers in the sixth inning when Todt, Saint first beseman poled out a homer to drive in two runs. The Saints garnered their other three tallies in a futile effort to snatch the game in the final inning.

Indianapolis made it three out of four in its series with Minneapolis yesterday by defeating the Kels, 5-4. The win kept the Indians in fourth place.

The traveling western teams of the circuit will trade playing lots today with Milwaukee coming to Columbus, Kansas City will go to Toledo, St. Paul will tangle with Indianapolis and Louisville will play host to Minneapolis.

KREUGER'S AIDES ARE UNDER ARREST

STOCKHOLM, April 16— Three associates of the late Ivar Kreuger under arrest on charges of having aided the Swedish match king in falsifying balance sheets of the Kreuger and Toll company were to appear before an examining magistrate today.

The three were arrested her last night after a meeting of the offical investigating committee probing the books of the Kreuger interests. The committee last week had anounced the Kreuger and Toll balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1930, had "brossly misprepresented" the true financial condition of the campany.

EXPECT DIRIGIBLE TO FLY ON APRIL 26

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 16— The pride of the Navy, the dirigible Akron, will soar into the skies again on April 26, it was announced today.

By that time it will have been completely repaired. The world's largest airship was damaged last February when the wind shattered it against the ground as it preparing to take off on a cruise.

ATHLETES WHO FIGURED IN WINTER DEALS IN SPOTLIGHT

Hack Wilson, Cuccinello, Stripp With Brooklyn and Sam Jones, Bump Hadley and Carey Selph With White Sox Are Examples of Baseball Hero Today.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The first week of the baseball season has been a gala one for the cast-offs—The leaguers who figured in the winter's numerous deals.

Hack Wilson, former home run king passed along to Brooklyn by the Cubs and Cardinals, hit his first homer for Brooklyn yesterday. Stripp and Cassinello, infielders obtained from Cincinnati, have laced out seven hits between them in two games with the Dodgers.

The batting of this trio helped Lefty Clark, Brooklyn's star southpaw, to beat Boston yesterday, 8 to 2 and old George Kelley got his first hit as a Dodger.

The Chicago White Sox have had even better luck. Sad Sam Jonnes and Bump Hadley, who came to Chicago from Washington, each have won a game for the Sox with the aid of some powerful batting by Carey Selph, the former St. Louis Cardinal farm hand, who came up in the draft.

SELPH DELIVERS

Selph, who wanted to sell insurance this year and had to be coxed to join the Sox, has batted .444 in his first four games. His three doubles enabled Jones to beat the Browns in the opener, and his third hit of the day enabled Hadley to win a 4 to 3 duel from Blaeholder of the Browns in thirteen innings yesterday, the longest game of the season to date.

The unbeaten Washington Senators stayed at the front of the American league parade by anexing their third straight victory from the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 0. Monte Weaver, ex-collegian from Baltimore made a brilliant debut in the majors by holding Boston to four scattered singles. He had to be good to beat Hod Lisenbee.

The Yankees played like bush leaguers in losing a 9 to 8 slugfest to the Athletic. New York make three mechanical errors and numerous mental ones. Foxx, Cochrane and Gehrig hit homers. With 29 players seeing action, the box score looked like a telephone directory.

Don Hurst, Philly first sacker who thinks he can't hit southpaws because he swings from the port side of the plate, drilled Lefty Hubbel for a homer with the bases full in the eighth to give the Quakers a 7 to 6 win over the Giants. The amazing Phils lead the national league while the highly touted New Yorkers have yet to win a game.

Shellacking five St. Louis pitchers and scoring seven runs in a fourth-inning rally, the Pirates downed the champion Cardinals, 9 to 7, squaring the series. Ripper Collins lead the Cards at bat with four hits, including a homer.

Cincinnati started Wally Hilcher, a rookie hurler, against the Cubs and he lasted only three innings, the Cubs winning 8 to 2 and evening the series. Old Hoss Stephenson took hitting laurels with three doubles, while Warneke's effective hurling earned him a starting berth with the Bruins.

Earl Whitehill, Detroit veteran, held Cleveland to three hits but it took football tactics by Joiner White, a rookie, to insure a 3 to 2 win for the Tigers. White was knocking Johnny Hodapp down on a force play at second, Rogell scored the winning run for Detroit in the ninth.

EXPERTS'

in the debris they are fairly confident of their opinion."

OPINIONS DIFFER

While the explosion theory was being abandoned by some, others clung to it as the only answer. There was an almost unanimous belief that gas could not have been responsible.

The high explosive theory was discarded by the DuPont experts because of the condition in which they found the part of the building where the explosion struck.

One explanation cited by investigators holding to the sabotage theory was the fact that the heaviest damage and probably the source was directly under the office of Charles Martin, superintendent of construction for Harry F. Hake, the architect.

It had been Martin's job to negotiate with strikers.

In the vicinity of the sub-cellar near his office where the blast probably had its source were strewn big piles of wreckage — smashed and grimy blocks of Georgia marble, bricks crushed like eggs by a hammer, steel twisted into a score of fantastic designs.

"In the case of high explosives," declared the DuPont men, "nothing would be left around the pit, or the center of the explosion."

HUNT DYNAMITE

Disappearance of dynamite from the London powderworks was reported by Leroy Keene of Columbus, a local representative of the company.

Three times as much as would be necessary to blow up the building was taken, he said.

Sixteen quarts of TNT were to be found in each 100 pounds of the dynamite. One hundred pounds would be sufficient to rip through the office building, Keene stated.

Pricking another bubble, Prof James R. Withrow of the chemical engineering department at Ohio State university said marble dust could not have caused the explosion.

The genuine tragedy of the explosion brought tears from Architect Hake when he visited the building. He wept openly.

In his opinion, the damages is certain to exceed $1,000,000. Engineering equipment in the building which was wrecked, was worth $500,000. Public Works Director T. S. Brindle said.

Representatives of the state were taking every precaution to avoid the possible ruling that the state and not the Strunk Construction Co., was the loser.

Although Ohio National Guards are patrolling the building, they are merely trying to protect life and property, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman said, and have not taken over the building for the state.

Inasmuch as the building has not been formally accepted by the state, Ohio's representatives will insist that the loss must be borne by the contractor.

assuring his friends that he felt his old self again, and that he would be ready when court convened for whatever the prosecution has to offer.

Lieut. Com. James E. Porter, assistant medical officer at the Pearl Harbor naval yard, warned the grizzled veteran that while his mental faculties have never been more keen, his body is failing because of his advanced years, and he must take things more easy. Darrow is approcaching his 75th birthday.

Kelley, the vigorous young Irish prosecutor, is determined to force the defense definitely to designate Lieut. Massie to the jury as the individual intended to be proved insane.

Lieut. Massie has already recounted the mental torture he underwent when he learned of the attack on his wife, but Kelley wants to stop further testimony until the insanity issue is made clear cut.

Darrow intends to let Lieut. Massie's testimony speak for itself, proving that the officer yielded to an irresistable impulse and became temporarily insane when he fired the fatal shot.

Then, to cap his case, he will summon Mrs. Massie herself to the stand probably to relate again the horrors of the attack.

Darrow is uncertain as to whether he will call on his two mainland alienists, Drs. Thomas J. Orbison and Edward Huntington Williams, to give testimony.

Instead he is willing to wait developments. His shrewd tactics have puzzled the hard working prosecution. Kelley, however, has two island psychiatrists in reserve ready for a battle to prove the defendants sane. They are Dr. Robert Faus and Dr. Stanley D. Porteus.

Any member of the family of Pearl Harrison, 524 E. Franklin-st, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Keller, Fazekas Star In Meet

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—Jack Keller, sensational Buckeye hurdler, today appeared to be started on the best year of his collegiate career, after leading the Ohio State varsity track team to a 119 to 21 victory over Ohio Wesleyan at the stadium here yesterday in the first outdoor dual meet of the season.

Most of the events were run over the Olympic metric system of distances and the gate receipts were turned over to the Buckeye Olympic fund.

The Olympic records were tied by Ohio State men, Keller raced over the 110-meter high hurdle course in 14.8 seconds, the present Olympic record, while Jesse Fazekas, his teammate, equalled the other Olympic record by winning the 100-meter dash in 10.8 seconds.

Both Keller and Fazekas qualified for the Olympic eliminations by their performances yesterday.

GIRL, 9, IS THOUGHT HELD BY KIDNAPERS

WILMINGTON, Del., April 16. Hilda Brodsky, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brodsky was believed to be still in the hands of kidnapers today.

Brodsky, a wealthy merchant, refused to permit police to enter the case. He was believed to have been warned in a ransom note from the kidnapers not to call on the police if he wanted to see his child returned safely.

Friends believed he was already in negotiation with the abductors. Brodsky absolutely declined to give information either to newspapermen or the police about the case.

Hilda was believed by friends of the Brodsky family to have been snatched by kidnapers as she was on her way to school yesterday.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN
L. D. Young, Pastor.

The experiences of our day are a challenge to our faith, courage and our character. An old editor told William T. Ellis the other day to pass the word on to everybody. This was the word: "Tell the churches that this is their hour. Every church should rally to the job. The most important aspect of this depression is the need that people should get back to God, and to all the essentials of real religion. Nobody but the church can make plain the will of God to the people. Mark what I say; this is the church's chance."

This is the church's day. What are you doing to help the church to help the world?

Sunday school and worship at 9:30. Chas. Essick, Supt.

Weather made little difference in the attendance last Lord's day.

We are trying to be kind and helpful to one and all. Remember the only book we have to guide us in the Way of Life is the inspired word of God. That book says, "It pleased God by the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe." We "Preach the Word" in the hope of bringing conviction to sinners and belief in the world's only Saviour. Come and worship with us whoever you are. The God we worship is no respecter of persons.

Recent speakers have emphasized the unparalleled opportunity facing the Christian Church in the wide world fields. The old religons do not satisfy, in fact they are disintegrating. It means much to us to realize what we have in our Christian religion. True, it has been criticized. It has enemies within its own fold. Back in the book of Deuteronomy we have this testimony: "For their rock is not as our rock. Even our enemies themselves being judges." We are in a position to exalt our religion but it needs devotion rather than words. Religion is a social thing. It grows by fellowship. The church is a fellowship. Go to church tomorrow. Take a friend.

A man who cannot make up his mind generally has very little mind to make up.

HOW PUBLIC WORSHIP HELPS

Public worship helps people to feel profoundly and to see more clearly the reality of a fatherly God; it helps people to avail themselves of the redemptive love of God.

Worship helps folks accept in practice the privileges and obligations of personal living in accordance with the teachings of Christ. Why not accept in invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Lesson for April 17

THE CALL OF ABRAM

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT—And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Abram Leaving Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Calls Abram to a Great Adventure.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Life an Adventure.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Conquering Power of Faith.

I. His Separation (v. 1).

The new era inaugurated with Noah as head ended in a colossal failure in the impious attempt of man on the plains of Shinar to set himself free from God's government. In view of this failure, God turned aside from the race as such and called Abram and placed him at the head of a new nation which he would train for himself. This call involved

1. A great sacrifice. It meant the severance of three ties:

a. His country in the widest range of his affections.

b. His place of birth and kindred which comes still closer to his heart.

c. His father's house as the inmost circle of all tender emotions. All these must be cast before the Lord could get him into the place of blessing. This is a call that is much needed today. The Lord is continually saying, "Come ye out from among them" (II Cor. 6:16-18).

2. The performance of heroic tasks. For Abram to go into a strange land and take possession of it, for God called for heroism. The life of separation from the world costs much, but it is the only way to have God's favor.

II. God's Promise to Abram (vv. 2-3).

The demand for separation was followed by a seven-fold promise—a gracious engagement on God's part to communicate unmerited favors and confer blessings upon him.

1. "I will make of thee a great nation" (v. 2). This was fulfilled in a natural way in the Jewish nation and in Ishmael (Gen. 17:20); also in a spiritual seed embracing both Jews and Gentiles (Gal. 3:7, 8).

2. "I will bless thee" (v. 2). This was fulfilled.

2. Temporally (Gen. 13:14-17; 24:35). Abram was enriched with lands, cattle, silver and gold.

b. Spiritually (Gen. 15:6; John 8:56). He was freely justified on the grounds of his faith. The righteousness of Christ was imputed unto him, also he had the exalted privilege of talking face to face with the Lord.

3. "And make thy name great" (v. 2). Going out from his father's house, he himself was to have a great name. He was to be the head of a new house which would be venerated far and wide. He is known as the "friend of God" (James 2:23).

4. "Thou shalt be a blessing (v. 2). We now pass from the lower to the higher phase of the promise. It was a great thing to be thus honored and blessed by God, but to be the medium of blessing to others was greater still. This has been fulfilled in a wonderful way.

5. "I will bless them that bless thee" (v. 3). Abram and the nation which came forth from his loins became the very touchstone of God. Since he is God's friend, he regards acts performed toward him as toward himself. This has been strikingly exemplified in all ages since. The nations that have used the Jews well have been blessed.

6. "And curse him that curseth thee" (v. 3). The nations which have turned against Abram and the nation of which he was head have never prospered. While God at times used the surrounding nations as scourges for his people, he in turn punished them for it.

7. "And in thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed" (v. 3). This has been fulfilled in a. The Jewish nation being made the repository of the oracles of God. Through them the Bible has been given to the world.

b. The bringing of the Redeemer into the world. Thus they became the channel through which God's richest Gift came into the world.

It will be further fulfilled in

c. A future time when Jews shall be God's missionaries in carrying the good tidings to the ends of the earth.

III. Abram's Obedience to God (vv. 4-8).

Abram at once departed out of his own land. He proved his faith by his obedience. He went out not knowing whither he went. He was a typical believer. He renounced indulgence and idolatry. He separated himself for a testimony by his altars of witness. He entered into Canaan and accepted a pilgrim life as a stranger and a sojourner.

Church Forum

WHAT CONSTITUTES A SUCCESSFUL SERMON?

Answers will depend largely upon the mental background of the individual; because of the special concern the church has in youth, the answers given by young people as to what constitutes a successful sermon is reflected in answers to a questionaire recently filled out by campus leaders and others of the undergraduates at Syracuse University. The students professed to have little respect for sermons which did not reflect a broad-minded attitude or which were delivered without conviction and they declared hyper-emotional oratory with its glorified use of adjectives and adverbs definitely passe. They expressed a dislike for theological treaties and a positive distaste for those hand-me-downs sermons in which the speaker makes a number of stereotyped statements with no attempt to explain them. Turning from a negative to a positive attitude toward preaching, the Syracuse students expressed their conviction that a speaker should have a thorough knowledge of his own field as well as a fairly adequate understanding of the fields relating to his subject before he attempted to make an address. They recommended that he present his subject in as simple a manner as possible.

A CHARACTER CLINIC

Corresponding to a medical clinic may be a character clinic where are provided character tests for boys and girls to find out whether the Christian spirit and religious ideals of the family are getting into character and conduct.

To prove religion genuine and to make it permanent, it must be really lived. The parent is not sure that its child is truthful and his work it to be absolutely trusted until he is placed in a situation where truth is embrassing and costly and you find him sticking to it just the same.

How may a child learn the importance of truth telling and acquire the habit of telling the truth and nothing but the truth? It may be some day, when he is deceived by a playmate, he learns the necessity of telling the truth, that we must be able to trust our friends or there is no living with them.

Planning projects and arranging for actual situations which will make possible learning by experience is what is meant by a character clinic.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS: PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO
NO. 15701
LEGAL NOTICE

Amos Guy Hudson, Plaintiff.
vs.
Robert Hudson, et al. Defendants.

Marvene Poe, whose address and place of residence are unknown will take notice that Emma Patton Lee and also Emma Patton Lee, as Administratrix of the estate of Noah G. Hudson, deceased, defendants and cross-petitioners in the above entitled cause have filed their several cross-petitions and amendments and supplemental pleadings thereto alleging on the part of the said Emma Patton Lee, as Administratrix of the estate of the said Noah G Hudson, deceased, that it is necessary to sell the premises described in the petition herein and the same being:

The east half of the Lot No. 598 on the revised plat of the city of Circleville and in the city of Circleville, County of Pickaway and State of Ohio.

to satisfy a mortgage originally securing the sum of Two Hundred ($200.00) Dollars and recorded in Mortgage Book No. 29 at page 27 of the Mortgage Records of Pickaway County, Ohio, payable to Emma Patton now Emma Patton Lee and also to pay a debt of Two Hundred Forty-eight Dollars and Fifteen Cents ($248.15) with interest thereon representing the balance due on a mortgage incumbering the above described real estate and formerly held by The New Citizens Building and Loan Company of Circleville Ohio and recorded in Mortgage Book No. 26 at pages 107 105 and 109 of the Mortgage Records of Pickaway County, Ohio and by said Building & Loan Company assigned on September 1st 1846, to Emma Patton Lee, individually, and since then and now held by her a debt against said property and further alleging the claim that on Feb 17th 193[illegible] the said Emma Patton Lee advanced to the estate of the said Noah G. Hudson deceased, the sum of One Hundred Fifty ($150.00) Dollars for the burial expenses of the said Noah G Hudson, and that said sums so owing to the aforesaid were advanced by the said Emma Patton Lee at the request of the said Noah G. Hudson, while living, and at the request of the widow and heirs at law of the said Noah G. Hudson after his death, and upon the agreement that the said sums were to be repaid to the said Emma Patton Lee, when the real estate was sold, said Administratrix further alleging that the costs of administering the estate of said decedent are unpaid, and will amount to about Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and said Administratrix prays for an order of the court directing her to sell the above described real estate to pay the debts and costs of administration of aforesaid.

And the said Emma Patton Lee, Individually, by answer and cross-petition and supplement thereto, prays judgement and foreclosure of mortage, for one debt of $200.00 with interest and another of $248.15 and interest and to recover for taxes, burial expenses and other items of cash advanced aggregating $2465.10 and more specifically set forth in said pleadings and to subject said real estate to the payment of the same, and said Emma Patton Lee further alleges that she is the owner in fee simple of the undivided two-thirds interest in said premises and that said Marvene Poe claims to be a tenant in common therein and seized of a one-thirtieth interest therein and said Emma Patton Lee alleges that any interest the said Marvene Poe might have in said premises is subject to and burdened with the lien of the debts and claims asserted by her and seeks an order decreeing the payment of same and extinguishing any right or interest of said Marvene Poe therein, and in the alternative for partition of said premises and for such other incidental relief as is proper and right and to which she may be entitled.

Said Marvene Poe is required to answer the said several pleadings of the said Emma Patton Lee as Administratrix in aforesaid and Emma Patton Lee, individually, filed in said cause on or before the 4th day of June, 1932, and said cause will stand for hearing and trial after said date.

EMMA PATTON LEE, AS ADMINISTRATRIX OF THE ESTATE OF NOAH G. HUDSON, DECEASED.
EMMA PATTON LEE, INDIVIDUALLY.
BARTON WALTERS,
Attorney.

EFFORT TO AID EMPLOYMENT SITUATION CAUSES ACCIDENTS

The effort to aid the unemployment situation by pushing work on public projects, which naturally necessitates the employment of many inexperienced men is reflected in the industrial accident statistics of the state for March.

Of the 11,004 claims filed with the Industrial Commission during the month, the statistical laboratory of the Division of Safety and Hygiene finds that 647 were from the public employees group, which also is charged with thirteen of the 93 fatalities for the month.

The record shows a mark reduction over the corresponding month of last year, in both accident frequency and severity, there being 2,243 fewer accidents and nine less fatalities.

The metal goods group led in accident frequency with 1,984 mishaps and six fatalities; commercial employment had 1,899 with six fatalities; the two construction groups, 871 with 11 fatalities; foods and beverages 664 with two fatalities, and public employees 647 with 13 fatalities.

The most prolific source of accidents during the month was handling objects, which resulted in 2,132 cases of injury and nine fatalities.

Pickaway-co has during the month, 20 injuries, of which one proved fatal, seven caused over seven days lost time, four seven day or less and 8 medical cases causing no time loss. The total time loss to county workers for the month as the result of accidents was 9,165 days.

Supt. Thomas P. Kearns of the Division of Safety and Hygiene is having prepared for distribution at the All Ohio Safety Congress, to be held in Columbus. April 19, 20 and 21, a detailed analysis of the accident experience of the groups holding section meetings. The division head will also review the accident experience of Ohio industries during the past year, which will be indicative of marked gains for safety despite unfavorable conditions.

The Safety Congress will embrace daily general sessions and nineteen distinct group meetings, which will be addressed by notables in the field of accident prevention work.

Any member of the family of M. C. Kirkwood, 310 Watt-st, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Unearthing History

ARCHAEOLOGY seems to be on the verge of solving the mystery of Mayan civilization, a secret the Latin American jungles have jealously guarded for centuries. A German scientist believes he has found the key to the great secret of the American continents by comparing the Borgian Codex in the Vatican Library with the written language of the Orient.

The riddle archaeology has been trying to solve is how it came about that the Mayans came to Mexico, how 2000 years ago they built up a civilization richly adorned with arts and crafts, with a great mythology and a knowledge of astronomy equal to that of the Chaldeans, how they florished for a time and then vanished.

Archaeologists have been seeking the answer for generations and have entertained the highest hopes since Gann, a few years ago, plunged into the bush of British Honduras to uncover the great amphitheater at Lubaantum, and Thompson explored the dark depths of the Sacred Well on Chicken Itza. Their excavations were rewarded with cities ,temples, roads and other evidences of an ancient but advanced civilization, but failed to produce the thing they wanted most, some sort of a Rosetta Stone.

Dr. Waide-Waldegg believes he has now found such a key and that it proves the Mayans to be of Asiatis orgin. The proof of the pudding will be found in the Mayan inscriptions, which the scientist is now studying. If the key fits, the New World will become another Old World with a history as old as that of Europe.

Opportunity In Politics

THE view, from which the average American cannot be budged, that politics does not offer a desirable career is challenged by Justice McCook, of the New York supreme court, who sees the trouble not in the career but in those who avoid or fail in public life.

Young men, the jurist has discovered, fail to make a success of politics because of conceit and impatience. They are too eager to make the world over after their own pattern and too easily discouraged when they meet opposition or reverses. Defeats are the test of a true statesman.

Political parties are always in need of new blood and new ideas, which means opportunities are open for every young man with the ability to grasp them. What the county needs today more than anything else is a new generation of career men to seek elective and appointive places in public life with the sincere purpose of rendering honest and faithful public service.

Public life ruins men only when it teaches them to seek victory at any cost or stifles their initiative. Candidates must learn to place their cause above their own private fortunes and public appointees should have the incentive of certain promotion as a reward for efficiency and fidelity. This human machine cannot stand still; it must either go forward or drop back.

The depression has encouraged thousands of young men just out of college to seek federal and state jobs as the most accessible door to some sort of an income. These soft berths will kill the enterprise and ambition in most of them. Some may survive and render valuable public service.

Banks and Taxes

TAXPAYERS in municipalities with budget troubles may not realize it at this time but their best friends are in many instances the bankers. Though that is not the motive which actuates them the bankers are protecting the interests of the taxpayers.

In numerous cases where the official representatives of the taxpayers have turned deaf ears to pleas for economy, their hearing has been sharpened by the intervention of the bankers. It is a simple trick. Governments spend public funds faster than they can collect them must go to the bankers for loans. When their expenditures pass the danger line the loans are shut off.

The worth of municipal obligations is based on the certitude of repayment of principal and maintenance of interest payments. Municipalities must conserve their credit, even as an individual does, if they are to find ready money at low cost. So when a community habitually ends up with a deficit the market for its bonds and short term notes narrows and the price at which they can be sold diminishes.

By insisting on good stewardship for the protection of their loans and the loans of their patrons the banks render valuable aid to the taxpayers, whose only defense is the ballot. Economies forces upon the government by the money-lenders save the taxpayers' money and act as a sort of safety value on taxes. Twice blessed in the community whose banks keep a weathereye on public finances.

Who remembers when the age of discreation was the parentage.

Always a Morales has been lord over this land. It is a past one may be proud of. For forty years it has been in my care, and I have added to its acres and increased the number of its cattle and the power of its name. I have made a domain of this land, a desert kingdom, yet today I am not content. I had hoped when the time came for me to join my fathers that I should see you with children and a husband fit to become master here."

"That is hardly the right order, uncle," she smiled up at him. "But I think I understand you. You are going to tell me Ted Radcliffe cannot be a fit husband for a Morales."

His eyes refused to meet hers. "I would go farther. I would say no American could be. Their ways are not our ways. And yet, too, I will confess the fault in part has been mine. One forgets how the years pass. To me you are still a child. I have jealously kept you at my side, not realizing that here is no one worthy of marriage with you. One forgets. It was wrong that you should be kept here at home on the border, among peons and half-castes, and American adventurers. I should have kept you longer in Mexico City. Already you are more American than Mexican. That was the fault of your hot-headed father. But that is over."

A spot of color glowed dangerously in the girl's cheeks. "Uncle, aren't you taking a very long way of saying that you don't want me to marry Ted?"

"Do I seem to be saying merely that? No, chiquita, what I am really saying is that you will never, never so long as I live, marry Ted Radcliffe."

For a moment the girl looked steadily into his fixed eyes. Then her own eyes flashed. She stood before him, with little clenched hands.

"You tell me that? And I tell you, tio mio, that if there is one thing I am sure of in life, it is that I will marry him. I will be his if I must give up everything I have ever known—if it makes me an outcast, poorer than your driven peons. So you waste your time and mine in useless quarrels that hurt us both, and do nothing more. It is not fair that I, who am a woman, should be told that I shall not marry, for I say to you now and for always, I will."

For a time the old Mexican sat brooding before the girl. He seemed to be considering something faintly amusing. At last he said: "Who shall say? And yet I rather doubt that you will marry this American, since it is my wish that you leave for Mexico City tomorrow morning."

She was past pleading now. For answer she laughed. "Uncle, I have no least intention of going to Mexico City, either tomorrow or next month."

"No?" The thin lips of Morales tightened. "Then you have twenty-four hours to revise your intentions. In the meantime keep to your room. Jito will drive you to the station in the morning. You forget, I think, that you are in Mexico. Now leave me."

Head held high, she left him, but her hands were still clenched, and once in her own room she threw herself on the bed and gave way to a storm of tears. They were more of anger than of fear, those tears, yet to her came the thought that everything Morales threatened he had the right and power to do. They were, as he had said, in Mexico. It lay wholly within his power as guardian to send her wherever he chose. Slowly the sobs died. She lay on her bed, chin in hand, and looked resentfully out at the bright morning. Once, in a frenzy of grief and anger, her little fist beat upon the pillow and hot tears started to her eyes. From beyond the window she heard the passing of a horseman, humming a Spanish song of love and fate. Suddenly the thought of separation from Ted, of living exiled from him, even for a time, became intolerable. For the next half-hour she lay outstretched on the bed, brooding, planning, and at last she tiptoed to the door. Just outside she heard someone breathing and knew that already her uncle had set a guard over her. She was a prisoner! Again her eyes flashed in rebellion.

Kicking off her shoes she tiptoed back to the window. Nothing moved outside the big hacienda. Her roadster still stood by the gate, and now she suddenly smiled. Quickly she threw off the light silk dress and slipped into a traveling costume. Again she listened at the door and heard the soft breathing of her uncle's servant outside. She walked to the window and leaned out. The patio and yard beyond lay empty in the glittering sunlight. Thickly on both sides of the window the old wisteria clung to the stucco walls. Softly she raised herself to the low window sill. Hand over hand, very gently, she lowered herself, then reached down with one slender leg until she found a resting place in the gnarled vine. In less than a minute her foot had touched the soft grass beneath, and in another instant she was running down the long path toward the tall black gates.

She looked back. A peon lounged beneath the eucalyptus. Toward the corrals a dog lay, lazily scratching in the shadow of the wall.

She was through the gate now, and, vaulting into the seat, touched the starter. The hum of the motor broke the desert silence and a moment later she was speeding for the open road.

The revolt against Morales had begun.

Once she rounded the bend in the road the mile posts flashed by. At each rise she glanced behind her, half expecting to see her uncle's car in pursuit, but the run to Verdi was safely made, and an hour later the fugitive drew up before the major's quarters.

In quiet sympathy Aunt Clara listened to the girl's story and when the end came, as it did inevitably in a flood of tears, the older woman put her arm about the girl and led her into the quiet coolness of the house.

"Let's worry no more, dear, about trips to Mexico City. Instead we'll talk about that big lover of yours. How did you two children decide you were in love?"

Through her tears the girl smiled up. "That's what's called calming the patient, isn't it?"

"Don't you care what it's called. I'm giving you a wonderful chance to talk about your Ted." She leaned back, looking at the girl with pity and something of envy. "And you do love him, don't you, dear?"

"Love him? It's as if I had been waiting for just this to happen for always. As if all my life before was just a kind of preparation for now. Does love always come like that, Aunt Clara? Does it come to everyone like that? It almost seems that to me alone this thing should be. Is it always like that, and can one keep it like that—like a clear flame?"

The older woman made no answer. She may have been wondering how to reply, wondering if anyone ever could reply to that eternal question.

"Dear," she said at last, "that word love takes me back so many half-forgotten years. You will have to ask a wiser woman how long love lasts or when it goes, or why. I can only tell you that it is the most precious thing that you will ever know, and that the years have nothing to bring in compensation for its loss. For that reason, my advice would be that you see Uncle Morales and everyone else in the old familiar place before you give up Ted Radcliffe. Today he is the most talked-of human being in all the border country, and Verdi is for him, to a man. Bob told me—this is a dead secret—he's going to make your young man a partner. But how did you decide to love him?"

"I couldn't help it."

She laughed. "Of course not. It just came over you like pneumonia, didn't it, dear?"

Then suddenly Aunt Clara's eyes widened as she looked out the window. She chuckled. "Well, we'll have to admit the dear uncle doesn't grow cactus grow under his feet. Look!"

Jumping to the window the girl followed her gaze to see Paco Morales's car swinging down the long, winding road of the military post. She turned to Aunt Clara with a gasp of dismay.

"Oh, I'm so weary of fighting and of words," she sighed.

To Prevent an Operation, Take Care of Your Liver

Gallstones Often Result from Neglect of Early Symptoms of Infection in the Biliary System, Which May Come from Diseased Teeth, Tonsils or Intestines.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

RECENTLY I wrote about the liver and described this important organ of the body. Today I want to tell you about some disorders of the liver and gall bladder.

Dr. Copeland

The liver and gall bladder together are often referred to as forming the biliary system. As with other parts of the body, this system may become disabled by distant infection. Tonsils, teeth, nasal sinuses, appendix or intestines may be the seat of infection.

The germs are carried to the gall bladder and set up an infection there, which after a short time may clear up. This is called acute cholecystitis, or acute inflammation of the gall bladder. When this infection persists, chronic cholecystitis results.

I am frequently asked what is the cause of gallstones. There are many causes. Infection is believed to be the most frequent cause. Gallstones have been described by an eminent medical writer as the "tombstones of dead germs." Never neglect infections of the gall bladder, for they may produce gallstones. It is important that the trouble be recognized early and given the proper treatment.

Many persons write asking whether surgery is the only method of cure for gallstones. Once gallstones are formed, there is no medicine known to medical science that will dissolve them. Diet and medication may relieve the attacks, but they do not remove the stones.

Not all cases of gallstones are painful. It is only when the stone slips into one of the small ducts of the gall bladder and causes a spasm that severe pain is produced. Contrary to a popular belief, jaundice, or a yellow color of the skin, is rarely found with gallstones. This condition is found only when the stone is in the bile duct and its presence does not permit the bile to reach the gall bladder.

As a rule a person with gallstones has a vague, uncomfortable feeling just below and to the right of the breast bone. This discomfort may go around the right chest and often passes to the right shoulder. This is a rather frequent complaint and is usually mistaken for neuritis of the right shoulder.

Gas and other digestive disturbances also are common symptoms. The disease is most frequently found in women who are fair, fat and beyond forty years of age.

Please, bear in mind that infection of the gall bladder may occur at any time. If the infection occurs and is neglected, abscess formation is rapid, and these cases require emergency operations.

If you have a tendency to gallstones, it is best to avoid fried and greasy foods, salt, pepper, spices and condiments. Meat should be taken in moderation. Water should be drunk freely between meals. Free elimination is imperative.

If you have been advised by your physician that an operation is necessary, do not delay. It is far better to walk into a hospital for the operation than to be rushed in because of extreme emergency.

Answers to Health Queries

D. L. F. Q.—I am troubled with gas on the stomach and sometimes around my heart. Is it best to starve under the circumstances?

A.—Correct your diet, avoiding too much sugar and starch, and be sure to keep the system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. C. S. Q.—Can a person get neuralgia and rheumatism in the chest from the shoulder blade to breast? What can be done?

A.—The trouble may be due to neuralgia. Some infection in the system is usually responsible. Application of heat is often helpful.

The Daily Horoscope

Friday, April 15, 1932

All important business affairs and new undertakings should be pushed under the favorable indications this morning. An early start is necessary to make the most of the day. The most favorable period comes at 8:03 a. m. Eastern Standard time. Beneficial for seeking employment, asking favors and dealing with the powers that be. Politicians may be more inclined to hand out benefits under this indication.

The major portion of todays' benefits seem to come to those born between April 15th to the 22nd, between August 18th to 25th. These people should reach out and keep active along the line of their major desires and interests. Nothing comes without effort, but it comes easier when the tide is with you.

The afternoon shows indications which tend to agitation, nervousness and irritablity. Not favorable for mental work, removals or journeys. One strong indication points to an unusual emphasis upon fraud and deception at 2:42 p. m. This may mark greater activity in the underworld in matters related to drugs and intoxicans. Not good for taking medicine or dealing with chemicals.

3:44 p. m. marks a time when errors and mistakes are most easily made. Not good for collections and accounts.

Children whose birthdays this is possess intense nature and usually drive their intentions through without the advice or help of others. They require very little assistance even as children they are independent and self-acting. If they are given the proper foods to eat and are dealt with kindly and much tolerance and consideration, they are sure to enjoy sucess, both in health and business.

Among famous people born on this date we find Charles Spencer Chaplin, moving picture actor; Charles J. Folger, judge, 1818; Sir John Franklin, the famous navigator.

AT THE GRAND

The Billy Purl unit show of 22 entertainers in complete deluxe stage presentations will be seen at the Grand theatre Monday and Tuesday.

This unit comes directly to the Grand from the Radio-Keith-Orpheum and Publix circuits and Circleville is fortunate in securing this high class attraction.

If you are really interested in the stage don't miss seeing this marvelous company at the Grand Monday and Tuesday in conjunction with the regular screen attraction.

AT THE GRAND

Will Rogers dressed in a boiled shirts, as the backwoods American ambassador attratched to an etiquette-ridden European court. Such is the guise in which we see the famous funster in "Ambassado Bill," his latest Fox picture, opening at the Grand Theatre Sunday as an envoy whose first diplomatic (?) act is to suggest that they call off a special presentation because the queen has "hurty feet!"

"Ambassado Bill" is a perfect "fit" for the famous reporter-actor due to the fact that it allows him to "be himself." Famous as a pungent commentator on current topics, and as an "unofficial ambassador" sent to laugh international troubles away, this film simply makes him re-live events that he must know by heart.

AT THE CLIFTONA

If a big and distinguished cast and a new plot idea mean anything—(and a still, small voice from Hollywood says they do) "Broken Lullaby" should provide excellent entertainment for the patrons of the Clifton a Theatre Sunday and Monday.

"Broken Lullaby," is based on the original French play by Maurice Rostand. It tells of the post-war events in the life of a former soldier in the war-time army. The principal roles are played by Lionel Barrymore, Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes.

Holmes is seen as the soldier of France—sensitive, romantic-minded, who, in the preformance of his duty, kills a young German soldier during a big enemy drive. As soon as the deed is committed, he begins to suffer a profound remorse. From a letter on the person of his victim he learns the name of the dead soldier's German sweetheart, Nancy Carroll, and the name of the town in which she lives with the dead man's father, Lionel Barrymore, a stolid German nationalist, who barbors a great batred for all Frenchmen.

Holmes' most recent picture was "An American Tragedy," in which he played the role of Clyde Griffiths. Barrymore was recently awarded the annual prize of the Academy of Motion Picture Sciences for his distinguished performance in "A Free Soul." Nancy Carroll was teamed with Holmes in "The Devil's Holiday," and "Stolen Heaven."

Other in the cast are Tully Marshall, Sp Pitts Lucein Littlefield, Tom Douglas, Emma Dunn, and Frank Darrien.

"Broken Lullaby" was directed by Ernst Lubitsch, German genius who made "Passion," "Rosita," "The Love Parade," and other screen successes.

SENIOR PLAY CAST CHOSEN

Eleven boys and girls of the senior class are in the cast of the senior class play, "Digging Up the Dirt," a three-act comedy by Bert J. Norton as adopted by William Sloane of Longmans, Green and Co., New York, to be presented the last week in May. Try-outs were held daily by J. W. Fetherlin this week.

Seniors and the role each plays are:

Pat Kirwin, Ken Andrews, a tall, good-looking fellow of college age, who is inclined to be serious but has a distinct sense of humor.

David Buchanan, Bill Loomis, shorter and livelier than Ken, and a born comedian and wise-cracker.

Gaylord Rose, Professor Halleck, a tall gray man past forty-five. He is nervous, shy, and excitable in temperament, but is too concentrated on the work on hand most of the time to use his smile.

Robert Adkins, Sheriff Carson, a tall, lean man of thirty-five, whose speech is drawling and slow.

Fred Colville, Jose Andrada, a dark, swarthy man with a black mustache.

Dorothy Riegel. Aunt Miriam Biggles, who is pretty bad news to the younger generation, is solidly built and has an air of determination. She speaks with a harsh voice and her movements are emphatic.

Jane Mader, Betty Sherman, a pretty and intelligent looking girl of 18, displays breeding and refinement in everything she does. She is genuinely in love with Ken.

Catherine Closson, Nan Eldridge, a friend of Betty's and slightly older. She is pretty in a blonde, slender way and speaks with a bored drawl. Although she adds to her complexion more than is necessary she is intelligent and has a sense of humor.

Ozilla Hosler, Phyllis Grant, is a blond, about 19, and very fond of Allan. She wears loud colors and looks nice without appearing intelligent.

Jane Hitler, Jane Carstairs, is a rather unintelligent, subdued, quiet girl.

Pete Stout, Allan Sherman, a tall, broad-shouldered man, quite sane and charming although in love with Phyllis.

The story of this farce is that of two college boys and their professor digging up the dirt in search of treasure of past races buried in the sands of Arizona. They find, however, a skunk whose well known activities cause the boys to bury their sole remaining guard and possessions in the sand. The appearance of their sweethearts forces the boys to adopt the raiment of the American aboriginal, Indian blanket, feathers, war paint and all.

As part of the fun, Westerners from a near-by ranch stage an old-fashioned square dance and "hoe-down."

The technical staff includes as promptors, Charles Plum, Ursula Chandler, Medford Good, and Zelma Betts; as make-up artists, Marie Richey, Geneva Kennedy.

Business managers are William Barthelmas, Charlotte Steinhauser, and Ned Thacher. The stage crew in charge of Henry Bartholomew list Donald Wolf, Robert Hundley, and Carl Purcell. Publicity agents will be announced next week.

COACHES GIVE LETTERS TO 17

Those students who have done outstanding work and have made the past basketball season a success were rewarded publicly Monday, in chapel period. Seventeen stars were given letter awards by the two coaches.

Graduates, Jean Fitzpatrick, captain, Jane Hitler, Dorothy Reigel, Mildred Heskett, Zelma Betts, and Mary Dalton received letters for the last time as C. H. S. scholars from Coach Rains. Ruth Henderson, Elizabeth Hilyard, Ellen Bennett, and Kathryn Brown were the junior recipients.

Coach Herberholz then called to the platform and gave awards to Porter Stout, Ned Thacher, Bill Hegele, Lloyd Leasure, Carl Purcell, Dean White, and Merle Davis.

In commenting upon these players Coach Herberholz said that co-operation and drive was essential for success. "We have them," he stated.

Emanuel Hundley and Evelyn Purcell were the proud recipients of the coveted class championship banners as captains of the sophomore boys' and girls' team, respectively.

THIRTEEN JOIN THESPIAN CLUB

Thirteen students have become pledged National Thespians. They have become eligible through their work in the various plays produced this year.

Those who have become members of troupe 11 of the National Thespians are Dudley Mills, Paul Rooney, William Barthelmas, Dorothy L. Glick, Jane Hitler, Gaylord Rose, Katherine Foresman, William Hegele, Dorothy Reigel, Billy Kellstadt, Ned Thacher, Ellen Bennett, and Charlotte Moore.

FITZPATRICK OBTAINS BID

The annual subscription campaign, by which an attempt will be made to sell 300 copies of the 1932 'Circle,' will be luanched Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock in chapel services to be conducted by the senior class.

Final arrangements have been completed for the publication of the annual.

The contract for the printing of the publication was awarded Friday to Fitzpatrick's Printery after the annual supervisory committee had studied the bids. Other bidders on the project were The Phillips Printing Co., of Columbus and Paul A. Johnson of this city. The successful bid calls for a 54 page book with a fitting scarlet and gray cover. Thirty-nine pictures of individuals and groups are included in the book.

The campaign which will be opened Tuesday will close Friday, May 29, at 3:45 p. m. The plan and organization of the campaign will be explained at chapel services Tuesday.

As a part of the program, the senior class is presenting a one-act play, 'And the Villain Still Pursued Her,' a burlesque melodrama. Class members who are taking part include Ned Thacher, Catherine Closson, David Buchanan, Zelma Betts, Charles Plum, James Drum, Jane Hitler and Dorothy L. Glick. Pat J. Kirwin, senior class president, is directing the playlet.

According to advanced plans of organization of the campaign, an annual will be given to every person who sells ten or more of the year-books.

A joke contest, the first to be held at the high school for several years, has been arranged by the annual committee, and all students of the high school are asked to participate.

Two annuals will be given as prizes. One will be given to the best or funniest joke and another annual will be awarded to the student who submits the largest number of "funny ones" as accepted by the committee of judges composed of E. I. Gephart, Miss Velma Watson, and Fred Watts.

The deadline for the submission of jokes is Thursday, April 1, at 3:45 p. m.

ORCHESTRA, BAND ACTIVE

Band has fulfiled one engagement, that of parading with the Red Men Thursday evening, and has yet two programs to fill. The two engagements are a program in chapel Monday morning and the band festival to be held at Marysville, April 29. The orchestra is to furnish music at Camp Sherman Sunday.

Circleville High School band took part in the Red Men's parade held Thursday evening in Circleville. The band appeared in uniform at this district meeting and were guests at the banquet given after the parade at the Memorial Hall

Band will furnish a chapel program in full regalia Monday morning. They will give the same appearance as that to be given at the band festival.

Bands of this festival will hold a joint rehearsal, Friday evening, April 22, at Bexley. This Central Ohio High School Band Association festival will be held at Marysville, April 29 and at Bexley, May 6. The bands will be under the direction of Frank Simon and Wiancwright.

Orchestra will journey to Camp Sherman Sunday where they will give a musical program under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein.

CAST BEGINS SECOND ACT

In order to obtain funds for the junior and senior banquet the junior class is presenting a three-act comedy, 'Man or Mouse,' April 27 and 28. The play was written by Owen Lee and published by the Row, Peterson and Co. It is the fifth production of Thespian Little theater to be presented at the high school this year, directed by J. W. Fetherlin. Rehearsals of the second act were completed Friday.

The play takes place in the lobby of the Homestead hotel which is located on Main-st in Homestead. Russel Van Horn, John Styers, a guest at the hotel is supervising the making of a road in the town. Joe Dawson, Paul Wallace, who is at the head of the workmen, becomes angry at Russel because of the interest Peggy Lou, Betty Pickens, is taking in him, and causes the men to strike.

The business men of the town takes Joe's part and ask Mrs. McFadden, Margaret Long, Peggy Lou's mother and owner of the hotel, to make Russel get out. This she will not do; and Joe decides that he and Russel will have it out together.

Russell has sent for Jonathan Willoughby, William Hegele, whom he is working and he comes to his help, bringing his wige Henrietta, Helen Westenhaver, and daughter Hope, Margie Snyder, and also Mr. and Mrs. Van Horn. Robert Wilson and Ellen Bennett.

Jennie Van Horn and Jonathan Willoughby readily see the need for Russell to tackle the job himself but the others want him to back out and have nothing to do with the workmen. It is Peggy Lou who finally gives him the courage to fight and he shows Joe and his gang that he is not a weakling.

HUMOR

Nippy, John Mason, a handy man at the hotel, is continually killing flies and dusting, but he does not fail to keep his ears open in order that no news may escape him.

Rainbow Runkle, Paul Rooney, has been justice of the peace for twenty years and he does not fail to show his belief in the power of the law.

Old Proby, John Maxey, is a reminiscent Civil War veteran who bestows military names upon all his friends. He likes to tell of the beautiful lady who led the army to victory and Peggy is forever reminding him of it by her likeness to him.

Plan Banquet For Sweethearts

The Hi-Y club will hold its annual "Sweetheart banquet" again this year, it was decided at a meeting of the club Tuesday noon.

Although definite arrangements are incomplete, Tuesday, May 3, has been designated as a tentative date for the affair.

W. B. Chambers, or some other member of the State Y. M. C. A. of Columbus, will act as principal speaker for the occasion.

Also at the meeting E. I. Gephart, advisor, began an informal discussion on the question. 'What Hi-Y Can Do for the School?' Each member was asked to write his suggestion and hand to Mr. Gephart. Some of the proposals will be discussed at the club's meeting next Tuesday.

As a young tree grows crooked or straight so young people develop to conform to their environment. The plant must conform to its environment but a person may change their environment to allow greater development. We create an environment by our actions in which we may thrive and permit others to develop into valuable men and women.

Who Is It?

This soph'more boy is rather tall
For whom some girls is bound to fall.
I can't find out just who she is
But I'll bet she's a dandy 'liz'
The football field has seen him too
Basketball? I'll leave that to you.
He's president of soph'more class,
A handy man? My Yes, yes, yes!

Who Is This Pedagogue?

Lads and lasses do beware!
When around him do take care.
For isn't he a dang'rous man?
He's chemistry and science fan.

His brother used to teach here too.
But probably not one of you.
He's still a single man as yet;
But not for long. That is a bet.

CERCLE D'HONNEUR ET SUCCES

Miss Lucille Neuding, principal, graduated from Circleville High school and then attended Ohio university. She then became a student at Wilmington and Wittenberg college and received her two-year diploma from the latter. She began her teaching career at Franklin-st where she has taught for 13 years. This is her first year as principal of Franklin-st.

She is a member of the Daughters of Union Veteran's lodge.

PRINCIUAL'S TOPIC

The track aspirant soon learns that a strong finish is necessary to win a race and the finish he makes depends on how he has run the earlier part of the race. He must be able to judge his pace well enough to keep along with the others and have enough reserve to sprint into the lead at the finish.

We are coming to the close of the school year. Some may be too far behind to overcome the lead gained by his classmates; others may be so mentally tired that they are depending on past efforts to gain their credit; the remained have worked consistly through the year and have a reserve to carry them out ahead of some of their friends.

We admire the athlete who finishes the race the best he can. We will gain the admiration of our friends if we make the best possible finish in our school work. It is worth an effort whether we win or fail.

Ohio's Trio Of Disasters

although a mob of prisoners was threatening to riot and sweep the city before them.

Ohio National Guardsmen were called out to surround the walls and prevent possible escape. Later they went within the prison where they remained for many days.

Schoolhouses, churches, barns and other buildings in the vicinity of the southern Ohio mining village were converted into mortuaries.

Mine rescue crews hurried to the mine from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and from several points in Ohio.

The Midvale explosion, in Tuscarawas county, was another tragedy that attracted great attention. Gas in the coal dust in the mine was believed responsible. Similar difficulties were met there.
